Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Some Thoughts and Suggestions on Technical Education On the one hand he is taught to live by his wits, and on the other that a person who does so becomes a byword and a reproach. But true education should bring about the harmonious growth of the whole man, and not a one-sided development of one or two of his faculties. With this system there has been for some years a very general distrust and an effort has been made to break away from it and replace it by some other method. That it has not fulfilled what was expected of it is patent to almost every one, and should we judge of it only by results, as we should judge anything else, it would seem at once that it was, to say the least, not satisfactory. It has been so long the habit to declare that our public school system of education is the foundation of all that is good in the country that it is difficult to look at it in any other way. We have only, however, to compare the results of such training with those of our own profession to see that it must be very defective. I remember in the year 1860 having heard my father, then 60 years of age, say of the men who started in business with him as a boy, that 90 per cent, had failed at least once, and that by far the larger part of them had never succeeded in obtaining even a competency. I have since heard the estimate of failures placed much higher. These men had all been educated under the theory then...
